Caramelized Pineapple Quesadillas with Spicy Strawberry Salsa

INGREDIENTS

- 2 cups fresh pineapple chunks, cut into squares
- 3 tablespoons coconut oil
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 vidalia onion, diced
- 1 boneless, skinless grilled chicken breast, shredded
- 6 ounces monterey jack cheese, freshly grated
- 1/2 cup freshly torn cilantro

SALSA

- 1 medium tomato, chopped
- 3/4 cup chopped strawberries
- 1/4 red onion, finely diced
- 1/2 jalapeno, seeded and diced
- 1/3 cup freshly torn cilantro
- 1 lime, juiced
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

INSTRUCTIONS

- Heat a large skillet over medium heat and add 1 tablespoon of coconut oil. Add pineapple and toss with salt and cinnamon, cooking until caramelized and golden, flipping occasionally – about 6-8 minutes. Remove pineapple and place in a bowl, then add another 1/2 teaspoon of coconut oil, tossing in onions and peppers with a pinch of salt. Stir and cook until softened, about 3-5 minutes, then remove from the skillet and place in the bowl with the pineapple.
- Reduce the heat in the skillet to low, add another 1/2 tablespoons of coconut oil. Place a tortilla down, then cover in a sprinkling of cheese (make sure you leave enough for the second quesadilla), chicken, the pineapple, onions and peppers, and cilantro, then add another sprinkle of cheese. Cook until tortilla is golden, then gently flip, keeping the ingredients inside, and cook until other side is golden. Repeat with remaining quesadilla, and serve with strawberry salsa.
- For salsa, combine all ingredients together in a bowl and mix thoroughly. The longer it sits, the more flavor that develops. Keeps well in the fridge for 2-3 days.

- Rachel, Cooking Coordinator

What a great week in Stem where Grades 3/4 and 5/6 built Simple Catapults. We used craft sticks, rubber bands and bottle caps. We had fun launching various objects off of our catapults! We even measured how far our objects traveled. Our older campers built Pyramid Catapults. This took a lot of patience...and lots of tape! They also had a super awesome time launching objects off of them and measuring distances. We finished off our week with Catapult Challenges!
